GLOBAL CLASSROOM WANTS TO KNOW HOW YOU HAVE USED THIS RESOURCE PACKET IN YOUR CLASSROOM!

EMAIL GC@WORLD-AFFAIRS.ORG AND TELL US YOUR STORY.

A Note on Learning Standards Presented in this Packet:

Three sets of standards have been linked to each of the learning objectives in this packet. The Washington State K-12 Social Studies Learning Standards and the accompanying Grade Level Requirements are the social studies standards for WA State.

Cross-objective standards are listed at the beginning of the packet, and content-specific standards can be found after each learning objective.

The standards provided have been selected for relevance, but are not exclusive: many other standards, such as Common Core, may be applicable to the resources and learning objectives identified in this packet. The intention for this packet’s organization is to provide educators with an idea of resources available and possible uses for resources. Users should feel free to create their own learning objectives and to select resources according to the specific needs of their classrooms.

WASHINGTON STATE K-12 SOCIAL STUDIES LEARNING STANDARDS

There are five EALRs in Social Studies, one for each of the discipline areas: civics, economics, geography, and history, and a fifth for social studies skills.

(1) Social Studies EALR 1: CIVICS

The student understands and applies knowledge of government, law, politics, and the nation’s fundamental documents to make decisions about local, national, and international issues and to demonstrate thoughtful, participatory citizenship.

(2) Social Studies EALR 2: ECONOMICS

The student applies understanding of economic concepts and systems to analyze decision-making and the interactions between individuals, households, businesses, governments, and societies.

(3) Social Studies EALR 3: GEOGRAPHY

The student uses a spatial perspective to make reasoned decisions by applying the concepts of location, region, and movement and demonstrating knowledge of how geographic features and human cultures impact environments.

(4) Social Studies EALR 4: HISTORY

The student understands and applies knowledge of historical thinking, chronology, eras, turning points, major ideas, individuals, and themes on local, Washington State, tribal, United States, and world history in order to evaluate how history shapes the present and future.

(5) Social Studies EALR 5: SOCIAL STUDIES SKILLS

The student understands and applies reasoning skills to conduct research, deliberate, and form and evaluate positions through the processes of reading, writing, and communicating.
The C3 Framework is organized into the four Dimensions, which support a robust social studies program rooted in inquiry.

The four Dimensions are as follows:

1. Developing questions and planning inquiries;
2. Applying disciplinary concepts and tools;
3. Evaluating sources and using evidence;
4. Communicating conclusions and taking informed action

<table>

“Global competence is the capacity and disposition to understand and act on issues of global significance” (Chapter 2).

Globally competent students are able to perform the following four competences:

1. Investigate the world beyond their immediate environment, framing significant problems and conducting well-crafted and age-appropriate research.
2. Recognize perspectives, others’ and their own, articulating and explaining such perspectives thoughtfully and respectfully.
3. Communicate ideas effectively with diverse audiences, bridging geographic, linguistic, ideological, and cultural barriers.
4. Take action to improve conditions, viewing themselves as players in the world and participating reflectively.
Learning Objectives

1. Students will be able to define global competence and identify specific examples that cultivate global competency within themselves and others.

2. Students will be able to explain the importance of cross-cultural communication and identify the skills needed to effectively communicate across cultures.

3. Students will be able to effectively communicate in both verbal and non-verbal forms with a diversity of audiences.

4. Students will be able to recognize and explain that diverse perspectives exist across individuals, groups, and cultures.

5. Students will be able to describe how global competency skills support the development of actively engaged global citizenship.

6. Students will be able to identify connections between local and global issues and develop strategies for taking action to solve these issues.

http://www.worldsavvy.org/global-competence/
Bridging Cultures: The important role of translators and interpreters, and how they help people coming from different cultural backgrounds to understand and cooperate with each other.

Globalization: The system of interaction among countries of the world that has led to increasing economic, political, social, cultural, and technological interconnectedness.

Internationalist: A person who believes or advocates for understanding and cooperation between different countries.

Multicultural Leadership: The combination of practices, values, and influences of diverse cultures that supports mindfulness of different situations, assumptions, and contexts.
Global competence is a toolkit the toolkit a productive, involved citizenry uses to meet the problems and opportunities of the world.

A new generation of students requires different skills from the generations that came before.

More than ever before, individual actions reach around the globe.

Global competence integrates knowledge of the world and the skill of application with the disposition to think and behave productively.

Success in career and life will depend on global competence, because career and life will play out on the global stage.

The Four Domains of Global Competence

This website helps educators examine the four domains of global competence and provides lesson plans on a variety of topics.

Using global competencies to drive three-dimensional science instruction

This article provides perspectives on how the four domains of global competence can be relevant in science and how educators can incorporate global competence across the curriculum.

World Savvy: Components of Global Competency

- Complexities and interdependency of world events and issues
- Geography, conditions, issues and events
- Historical forces that have shaped the current world system
- One’s own culture and history in relationship to others

- Research
  - Communication and collaboration
    - Coping and resiliency
  - Critical and comparative thinking
    - Creative thinking and problem solving

- Seek out multiple opinions and perspectives
- Form opinions based on exploration and evidence
  - Taking informed action on issues that matter to you
- Sharing knowledge and encouraging discourse

- Openness to new opportunities, ideas and ways of thinking
- Self awareness about identity & culture, and sensitivity & respect for differences
- Empathy & valuing multiple perspectives
- Comfort with ambiguity & unfamiliar situations

Steps Moving Forward

Teachers: What Can You Do?

- Create professional learning communities supporting collaborative work to thoughtfully infuse the curriculum with opportunities for students to investigate and analyze issues of global significance, communicate findings to diverse audiences, and improve conditions.

- Target high-leverage entry points within the curriculum to engage students in rigorous global inquiry, using national, local, and school expectations (e.g., Common Core and state standards) as gateways to deep learning and intellectual development.

- Connect your classroom and curriculum to cultural and educational institutions that can further opportunities for students to learn to investigate the world, recognize perspectives, communicate with diverse audiences, and take action. Institutions may include museums, civic institutions (Red Cross, scouts), afterschool and extended learning programs, and nongovernmental organizations that promote global competence and intercultural communication (Bridges to Understanding, Taking IT Global, World Savvy, iEARN).

- Develop your own global competence by taking advantage of opportunities to learn about the world’s cultures, languages, and interdependent systems, and to broaden your perspective through travel and study abroad.

School and District Leaders: What can you do?

- Lead your education communities in developing a deep understanding of the importance of global competence for the success of every student and in considering what a school’s mission should be in the 21st century.

- Create opportunities for your schools to systematically investigate how addressing matters of global significance can become a mainstay of a school’s culture—reflected in its structures, practices, and relationships with people and institutions outside the school.

- Pilot new and strengthen existing approaches to promote global competence, from new course offerings in world languages and other internationally focused content to globally focused service learning and internships to international travel and virtual exchange opportunities for students and teachers.

- Feature best practices stemming from your schools and communities. Create conditions for interested stakeholders (teachers, administrators, parents, businesses) to reflect about the opportunities embedded in best practices and what can be done to support them and expand their reach.
